TALK ON RAILROADS

Passenger Agents Open Convention in New Willard.

MANY DELEGATES PRESENT

Commissioner West Extends Hospitality of the City—President Finley, of Southern Railway, Criticizes Public Attitude Toward the Transportation Companies.

More than 125 members of the American Association of General Passenger and Ticket Agents assembled in the red room of the New Willard Hotel yesterday for the fifty-second annual convention of the organization. The delegates present represented all of the larger cities throughout the United States, Canada, and Mexico.

Two sessions were held yesterday, one in the morning, which was devoted to the general business of the association, and which was addressed by District Commissioner Henry L. West and President W. W. Finley, of the Southern Railway, and a second one in the afternoon, at which prominent members of the association delivered addresses on subjects of interest to the delegates.

Commissioner West, in his address, welcomed the railroad men to Washington and accorded them the hospitality of the city. He then spoke of the beauty of the National Capital, its advantages for conventions, the form of government of the District of Columbia, and dealt at length upon the importance of the association assembled.

He was followed by President Finley, who denounced the demands made upon the railroad to improve their facilities on a scale calling for the outlay of millions of dollars, and at the same time, to perform their service for the public at greatly reduced rates. He then took up the question of government ownership of railroads, and said that, though the railroads were properly subject to government regulation, such regulations would have to be conducted on sound business principles.

At the afternoon meeting reports were read by committees, and several addresses were delivered by members of the association relating to railroad affairs. The last session of the convention, which will adjourn to-day, will be held at the New Willard this morning at 10 o'clock.

Toronto, Canada, was selected as the place of holding next year's convention.

SOME PERSONAL NOTES.

R. H. Wallace is general passenger agent of the Erie. His home is in New York.

B. N. Austin, who is general passenger agent of the Baltimore and Ohio, lives in Chicago.

Orlando Taylor is general passenger agent of the Fall River Line and at present vice president of the association.

D. B. Martin, passenger traffic manager of the Baltimore and Ohio and one of the most prominent railroad men here, is accompanied by his wife.

W. J. Black, of Chicago, passenger traffic manager of the Santa Fe System, is well known among railroad men as a genial host.

C. M. Burt, secretary of the association, is one of the prominent figures at the Willard. Mr. Burt is the general passenger agent of the Boston and Maine Railroad.

C. L. Stone, passenger traffic manager of the Missouri Pacific, and now president of the American Association of Passenger and Ticket Agents, is stopping at the Willard. Mr. Stone hails from St. Louis, and is one of the most popular of the delegates. He resides as president of the association to-day.

DECISION IN HAND-BOOK CASE.

Court to Answer Motion in Goodacre Indictment.

Justice Barnard to-morrow will announce his decision on the motion; argument was made Monday by Attorneys Davis, Carrington and Behrend, upon behalf of the defendant, and by District Attorney Baker upon behalf of the government, to quash the indictment returned against George L. Goodacre, charged with having violated the anti-gambling laws of the District by conducting a "hand book." In the event that Justice Barnard denies the motion, it is thought that the trial may begin this week.

COMPLETE DISTRICT ESTIMATES

Commissioners to Ask for Appropriation of $13,000,000.

The Commissioners have practically completed their estimates for the District of Columbia, and they will probably be forwarded to the Secretary of the Treasury Thursday or Friday of this week. The total will reach nearly $13,000,000. It is understood the appropriation asked by the school board has been almost untouched by the Commissioners, while $750,000 is asked for a high-pressure water service for the city.

Regulation of Autos.

A regulation governing the movement of the sight-seeing automobiles of the city has been drafted by the corporation counsel and submitted to the different companies for suggestions. The stopping of large automobiles at places other than regular offices or terminals is deemed necessary.

OPPOSE THE RAZING OF TREES

Would Not Sacrifice Shale for the Grant Monument.

Rev. Dr. Bristol Joins with Government Official in Fight Against Proposed Action.

"By all means, spare the trees," said Rev. Dr. Frank M. Bristol, pastor of the Metropolitan M. E. Church, where President McKinley used to worship, on the reported intention on the part of the authorities to raze a number of trees, among which are some of historical significance, in order to make room for the Grant memorial monument.

"Washington's main attractiveness would be gone without the trees," continued Dr. Bristol. "It's an easy matter to produce monuments, but it is far more difficult to successfully grow trees, which are not only an ornament to the city, but which render most important service by the purification of the atmosphere."

An official at the Agricultural Department, whose sole duty it is to study trees and their culture, said:

"Every tree uprooted or destroyed is so much health-giving oxygen taken from the people. Trees contribute to the conservation of the public health, while monuments don't. First of all, the public health must be looked after. After that, monuments may be considered."

The Northeast Citizens' Association, in a resolution approving the actions of Conrad H. Syme, the attorney who appealed to the civil courts for a restraining order against the Grant Monument Commission, showed in no uncertain manner its views on the destruction of the trees.

Mr. Syme was also commended for his attitude and the co-operation on the part of the association was offered to him. The resolution goes on to say that the disposition of the monument commission to destroy the trees is viewed with alarm, and that it exhibits a spirit of vandalism having no place in this century.

Methodist Pastor Accepts Call and Successor Named.

The Rev. George W. King, pastor of Dunbarton Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Georgetown, will leave here the latter part of the month to assume the pastorate of the People's Temple Methodist Church in Boston, Mass.

At a special meeting the official board of the church issued a call to the Rev. James Madison Swadener, of Kokomo, Ind. A telegram was received from him last night, in which he said he would accept the call and come to Washington as soon as possible. Dr. King will preach his farewell sermon Sunday, October 27, and will assume his new pastorate in Boston the first Sunday in November.

COMMISSION BUSINESS ILLEGAL.

No Evidence, Though, of Transactions in Square.

Sealer of Weights and Measures W. C. Haskell has filed his report relative to the hearing granted to E. B. Lafferty, through his attorney, A. A. Birney, in regard to the legality of nonproducers disposing of produce on Haymarket Square on the commission basis.

An opinion on the subject, submitted by Assistant Corporation Attorney Blair, at the solicitation of Mr. Lafferty, held that it was illegal to do a commission business on the market square; but in view of the fact that Mr. Haskell had no knowledge of any business having been transacted on the square which would constitute a commission business, and as he was in some doubt about the opinion being applicable to the case in question, he has recommended to the Commissioners that no action be taken on the matter until definite evidence of some illegal transaction be brought to his attention.

COURT AWARDS $1 FOR INSULT

Dr. Vaughan Wins Verdict Against Railroad Company.

Physician Was Ejected from Station While Waiting for Daughter—Satisfied with Jury's Decision.

The sum of $1 damages, with costs, was awarded to Dr. George T. Vaughan by a jury in Circuit Court No. 2, Justice Anderson presiding, against the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington Railroad Company. The trial of the case lasted for more than a week.

Dr. Vaughan claimed to have been forcibly ejected from the Sixth street station by employees of the railroad company without provocation. From the evidence it appeared that he went to the station to meet his daughter, and while in the waiting-room was approached by an employee who asked him what he was doing in the station. Dr. Vaughan claimed that the man's manner was so insulting that he declined to answer him, and a few minutes later the same employee again approached him, accompanied by a policeman, and the question was repeated.

He told them that he was waiting for a train, but declined to go into further explanations, whereupon he was seized, and was upon the point of being forcibly ejected, when he went out of his own accord.

Attorneys Conrad H. Syme, Charles F. Carusi, and Henry H. Glasie, who appeared for Dr. Vaughan, did not attempt to show that the latter had suffered any physical injury, but both the attorneys and the doctor expressed their satisfaction at the verdict of the jury.

They state that the right of a citizen to be in the railroad station without being subjected to a cross-examination as to what he is doing there was vindicated by the jury and that the verdict of one dollar and costs settles the question as to the rights of the public in the premises.

DECISION ON FIRE ESCAPES.

Boarding Houses of Three Stories or Under Are Exempt.

That boarding houses of three stories or under do not have to have fire escapes is the decision of Corporation Counsel E. H. Thomas, rendered to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia.

The question arose in the case of Mrs. C. C. Rogers, who is the owner of a pseudo-hotel at North Capitol and C streets, and leased to Mrs. G. W. Holmes. Though nominally a hotel, the Plaza is in reality a plain, everyday boarding house of the transient-accommodation variety, and Mrs. Rogers, when served with a notice that she must comply with the District regulation regarding fire escapes, appealed to the Commissioners, stating that the idea of converting the Plaza into a hotel had been abandoned on account of the fact that a considerable expenditure, in fact more than was warranted, would be necessary in complying with the fire-escape regulations.

In his opinion, as regards the status of boarding houses on the fire-escape question, and which was solicited by the Commissioners on the receipt of Mrs. Rogers' appeal, the corporation counsel holds that any decision in the matter must rest on proper or improper application of the several terms "tenement house," "flat," or "apartment house" to cover "boarding houses."
